TROLLEY CASE ENDS

Litigation of Rival Companies in Somerset County Adjourned.

DECISION OF COURT WAITED.

Baccalaureate Sermon Delivered to the Graduating Class of the High School by Rev. Joseph D. Garrison of the Lutheran Church.

SOMERSET, Apr. 29.—All the testimony on both sides in the equity hearing between the Meyersdale & Salisbury Street Railway Company, plaintiff, and the Pennsylvania & Maryland Street Railway Company, defendant, has now been introduced and the case has been adjourned. Time was allowed by the court for the filing of requests for findings of fact and after the filing of those documents the time at which the arguments in the case will be heard will be fixed. This is the first trolley litigation in Somerset county and it has attracted considerable attention.

The Meyersdale & Salisbury company was organized some years ago rights of way between Meyersdale and Salisbury, a distance of about 10 miles, were obtained and some grading and other construction work done. The company then became involved in financial difficulties and there was a dissolution for about two weeks. A new company bearing the same name as the first corporation was then organized and the preliminary surveys and other work were made when the members of the company became aware of the existence of another company, the defendant Pennsylvania & Maryland company, who had by ordinance and private grant secured a claim to the rights of way of the old company. Two former stockholders and Directors of the old company were at the head of the new company. In attempting to continue their surveys the engineers of the Meyersdale & Salisbury company came into contact with the first opposition offered to the old company. Officials of the new company, the P. & M., appeared and ordered these engineers to leave the rights of way of their own company. After some investigation the local counsel for the P. & M. appeared before Judge Kooser and prayed for and obtained a preliminary injunction against the P. & M. company restraining them from hindering or interfering with the engineers or employees of the Meyersdale & Salisbury company. The hands of the P. & M. were thus tied and shortly afterward the case was brought before Judge Kooser, sitting in equity as a Chancellor.

In this equity case the defendant Pennsylvania & Maryland company was represented by E. O. Kooser, E. E. Kierman and Berkey & Shaver, all attorneys residing in Somerset. The hearing of the testimony in this equity case has occupied nearly a month. The court has been adjourned to accommodate regular terms of civil and criminal court but finally on Saturday afternoon the defense rested and the court was then adjourned for the reasons given above.

It seems that the attorneys on both sides introduced every scrap of paper which might in any way have any bearing upon the case. Ordinances passed by the Borough Councils of Meyersdale, Salisbury and other towns were introduced. Proofs of the right of way, books of the companies, contracts, decisions of various courts, precedents bearing on the case, maps of the country, engineers' notes, and any other documentary evidence which could be found. Many witnesses were called to the stand by the plaintiff and more by the defendant. Strenuous objections to the introduction of much of the testimony as well as many of the books and documents were made by the counsel and the whole case was filled with quarrels between the attorneys. Many rulings were made by the court and the case was tried in the most careful manner possible.

The date when the arguments will be heard can not be determined and the time when the people will know definitely which railroad will be or whether either will be built can not be fixed. It is altogether probable that appeals will be taken after the decision of Judge Kooser is handed down and the matter may be tried a second time before the Superior Court.

The purpose of each company is to construct and operate a street railway between Meyersdale and Salisbury, a section of the county where transportation facilities are much needed, the only vehicles for the transportation of passengers at present being an old-fashioned stage coach. It is generally known that after the section of road between the two towns named above is in operation, connection will be made with trolley lines in Fayette and Westmoreland counties as well as with a Maryland line which would furnish transportation to Frostburg, Cumberland and other towns and cities in North Maryland. Later an interurban connection would be established throughout Somerset county and ultimately a network of trolley tracks would connect Somerset county with other counties and the trolley tracks in these counties would be connected to the tracks from Somerset county. Cambria county would be among the first to be reached in this manner. Every one in the whole county is anxious to see the completion of a trolley system and it is almost certain to prove a paying venture.

ROOT TO LEAVE CABINET

Former Friendship Between Roosevelt and Him Has Cooled.

Washington, April 30.—Secretary of State Root is, it is believed, preparing to resign from the cabinet. For the last six weeks the secretary has been gradually divesting himself of the cares of office, pushing Assistant Secretary Bacon forward in his place. Heretofore it has always been the custom for the secretary of state, when in town, personally to receive the foreign ambassadors and ministers at the diplomatic receptions. Recently Root has had Bacon present at these functions, so that he could become familiar with the questions brought up by each of the diplomats. The official explanation offered is that Root is preparing to spend a long vacation this summer at his Utica (N. Y.) home and he is anxious that he should be disturbed as little as possible by business.

There are other indications which lead to the belief that the secretary's retirement may become permanent in the near future. The personal relations between the president and Root, it is noticed, are not as intimate as they used to be. In the cabinet meetings it is said that Secretary Taft and Secretary Root are now the president's closest advisers. The estrangement, such as it is, is believed to date from the time when the president first advocated the nomination of Taft as his successor. Prior to that Root had every reason to expect that he would receive the Roosevelt influence, and it was a great disappointment to him to see the big Ohio man pressed forward as the administration candidate. Then, too, it is said Root has not been in sympathy with the president's attack on Odell and Wadsworth in New York.

TREATY OF PEACE MADE

Mayor McClellan and Tammany Will Work Together.

New York, April 30.—An end to the contest for control of Tammany Hall between Mayor McClellan and Charles F. Murphy was announced following a conference between Timothy D. Sullivan and Corporation Counsel William B. Ellison, the latter of whom represented the mayor. Mr. Ellison after the conference gave out a statement in which he said the Mayor will be left free to appoint the highest class of men he can find for city offices, but that he (Ellison) will advise against the appointment of men inimical to the Democratic organization or its leaders.

Mr. Sullivan, he said, agreed that only efficient men should be retained in or appointed to city offices. The Mayor will recognize the right of his leaders to control the Democratic organization, and will ask that the organization give him its support in his efforts to solve the great municipal problems which confront him. Mr. Ellison said. In that way it was hoped, he added, to eradicate the lines drawn between the organization and the administration.

Death For a Kiss.

The rules and regulations which govern unmarried girls in France are exceptionally strict when compared with those of England and America. On the other hand, I think those of social laws of Spain. I think those of France are favorable to the female life. I have personal knowledge of a case in which a young Spanish girl shot herself because she had been kissed by a young man and because, in consequence of this small indiscretion, her life had been made unbearable by her relatives.

BLAINESBURG.

An Ideal Town Location Along the Monongahela River—Watch Blainesburg Grow.

Blainesburg is fifty-two (52) miles south of Pittsburg, on the Monongahela river, opposite Brownsville, Pennsylvania.

Blainesburg occupies the central location in the four counties (Fayette, Green, Washington and Westmoreland) which have a virtual monopoly on the world's supply of coking coal. The coke industry, just in its infancy, is today the most profitable branch of manufacturing. That the coke industry will rapidly become more profitable is proved by the facts of the limited supply of suitable coal and of proper quality for making coke and by the increased use of steel in new buildings, bridges, electric lines, etc. The four counties which have a monopoly on the world's supply of coking coal and which surround Blainesburg, contain millions of acres of this valuable coal which is worth, when marketed, upwards of $10,000 per acre.

Blainesburg has been particularly favored by Nature in location and situation in the center of this vast wealth, and the facilities for transportation and distribution by river and five railroads all combine to make real estate values at Blainesburg increase with rapidity. Lots have multiplied in value the past year and are selling rapidly. Blainesburg offers opportunities for the merchant, the mechanic, the laborer, the professional man and the investor.

For further particulars call, telephone or write Dunn & Maury, Main Office, Snowden building, Brownsville, Pa. Branch Office, Third Street and Madison Avenue, Blainesburg.

UNSCRUPULOUS FACTIONALISM.

Yesterday we reluctantly called attention to the part the "Independent" Uniontown Herald is playing in Fayette county politics. It is openly charged, has never been denied and is generally understood that this newspaper is owned by certain Republicans. They will be held responsible for its actions and utterances. The Republican voters of Fayette county will not disassociate themselves with their goods and chattels. Whatever disturbances they make in the Republican party of this county, whatever sessions they sow, however they disturb party harmony, however they interfere with party success, through their newspaper mediums, or otherwise, so will they have to answer at the bar of Republican judgment.

The Uniontown Herald is an excellent newspaper in its news features, but in its editorial page its mission seems to be one of blame not praise. Its voice is ever raised against somebody or something. The sweet milk of human kindness is dripped in its breast, which excites naught but gall and bitterness. It has grasped the wrong end of the stick. There could be no objection to words of praise for its own and their friends, but when it constantly and bitterly attacks Republicans not of its factional following, men to whom the Republicans of Fayette county have given an emphatic vote of confidence, and particularly when such attacks are false and unfounded, it strikes at the very life of the party, and must necessarily be regarded as an expression of Philadelphia opinion. As a matter of fact, it is not even an expression of Fayette county opinion. It is a mere factional invention.

The animus of the whole thing is readily discoverable even in the headlines, where it is announced that Crow's vote on the McCord bill "will kill Reppert," and that the "anger of the people" will be "vented" on Reppert, and finally that the "episode complicates the judicial contest and may place Van Swearingen on the Fayette county bench."

The Council has not, and will not, take part for or against either of the Republican judicial candidates. We have repeatedly stated that both were well qualified for the position, and we have expressed the earnest hope that the contest will be fair and open and honest, so that we may all join heartily in the support of the winning candidate, knowing him to be the free and untrammelled choice of the party.

We have not changed our opinion or shifted our position, but on the contrary desire only to emphasize it in this protest against constant misrepresentation and abuse by unscrupulous factionalism.

Let us have the Square Deal so that when the primary is over opponents may look each other frankly in the face and say without shame, "It was a good fight; now let us make a better one!"

The irresponsible and ownerless dog is charged with being the cause of the wailing of the sheep industry in Pennsylvania. This order of doctrine should be reversed. There should be a wailing of the canine family. Pennsylvania wool is the finest in the land and Pennsylvania dogs are the most worthless in the country.

The railway track is not a highway and should not be used as one if another is available. It should be used only with great caution and cover when it is manifestly dangerous.

The Centennial History of Connelville is not a lost chapter. The authors have not been making much noise, but they have done a large amount of careful and conscientious work, and the fruit of their labors will soon appear. The work of writing history is tedious. Every fact must be verified.

Baseball has added to the spirit of rivalry between Connelville and Uniontown, but thank heaven the judicial primary hasn't mixed in.

The warm days are bad for the worm and sometimes for the trout.

New Haven is bound to have that municipal building without the aid or consent of any other borough.

The rival Meyersdale and Salisbury trolley companies talk largely of connections with Fayette county and Cumberland, but they do not tell us who is going to build the long stretches of lines of doubtful paying prospects.

The new telephone system hasn't got its hearing yet.

Secretary Root is accused of getting cold feet, but it is not alleged that he ate at the $5,000,000 dinner.

The eyes of the Connelville miners are on Windsor to-day, and their ears are on the ground waiting for news of the rescue of their imprisoned comrades.

Earthquakes and tidal waves may shake and roll, Wall Street may cry a golden future or shriek financial catastrophe, politics from the White House to Fayette county may bubble and bubble, but the business of building coke plants goes right forward.

dar, will hardly result in clearing the political atmosphere in Fayette. It will rather serve to complicate matters more, as both Van Swearingen and Reppert refuse to accept a place on the Cincinnati Court bench.

The Senator's refusal to vote for the McCord bill at the request of Mr. Thompson has made the matter worse. Thompson has refused to take any part in the judicial fight, but his friends assert that he will resent Crow's treatment and turn in for Van Swearingen. Thompson has a big stake in the politics of Fayette, and may put Crow and Reppert out of business.

This article was printed in the news columns of The Herald under glaring headlines. It was followed up by this editorial:

HIS GREAT BLUNDER.
An interesting contribution to the political literature of the day will be found in another column of the Fayette County Herald. It is the comment of a Philadelphia newspaper on the situation in Fayette county. It serves to call the attention of the people here to the fact that Senator Crow's vote on the McCord bill has become a matter of State concern, made particularly so because of the fact that in the search for a desirable candidate the eyes of those anxious to secure a clean, progressive and representative candidate have been turned in this direction for some time.

With such a man as J. V. Thompson, believed to be ready to accept Senatorial honors if thrust upon him, it is little wonder that the action of Senator Crow in contributing to the defeat of a proposition looking toward an expression of local popular preference for a home candidate is regarded in every section of the State as being a great political blunder.

Going down? What? Senator Crow's political stock. P. S.—And Reppert's, too!

J. V. Thompson, the man whose name is used unwarrantably in this fulmination, stands high in the esteem of his party and of all the people of Fayette county, not merely because he has been eminently successful in a financial way, but because he is a man whose honor has never been tarnished. The unwarranted use of his name naturally aroused his indignation. He called the editor of the Uniontown Standard into his office and said to him:

"You can state that there is nothing in this when I did not go to Harrisburg until after the vote on the McCord bill was taken. I did not ask Senator Crow, and did not discuss the matter with him. I did not go to Harrisburg on political matters. My mission was another and I was successful, and Senator Crow assisted me in it."

The history of this attack begins in The Herald office and ends there. The article printed in the Philadelphia organ of disaffected Republicanism was written in Uniontown, sent to Philadelphia, printed there and reproduced here as an expression of Philadelphia opinion. As a matter of fact, it is not even an expression of Fayette county opinion. It is a mere factional invention.

The animus of the whole thing is readily discoverable even in the headlines, where it is announced that Crow's vote on the McCord bill "will kill Reppert," and that the "anger of the people" will be "vented" on Reppert, and finally that the "episode complicates the judicial contest and may place Van Swearingen on the Fayette county bench."

CONNELLSVILLE LOST.

Uniontown P. O. M. Champs
Won by a Score of 2 to 0.

THE GAME WAS WELL PLAYED.

Woodruff Had Better of the Pitching
Against Haggeman and Pearson.
Sharp Fielding and Errors Marked Contest.

In a hotly contested game, one which kept the participants on the jump from the first to the last inning, Uniontown, champions of the P. O. M. League, defeated the Conneltsville West Penn nine Monday afternoon. The final score was 2 to 0. It was by the hardest kind of work that the Champions eked out victory, but it was a clean one, fairly earned. Both teams put up an excellent article of ball and while seven errors for Conneltsville and three for the Champions looked bad on paper, it must be taken into consideration that the M. & S. infield is possibly the worst in the country to play on. But it was not due to the rough field that Uniontown won or Conneltsville lost. The trouble started with a two-bagger to left by Mr. McCloskey, who holds down the second sack for Uniontown. He came romping home on Hinton's single in the eighth inning. This should have ended the scoring, for two men were out, but Roberts sent a fly between middle and right which both Crozier and Mathers went after. Crozier got the ball but Mathers jumped into him and Crozier dropped it. Hinton came romping home and while the clever little infielder made a fine throw to the home plate, the Uniontown captain scored by a hair's breadth. Rudolph sent Roberts to second and gained first on Hart's fizzle and the Uniontown rooters thought sure that Mr. Woodruff was up in the air, but the stocky Conneltsville twirler made Keller bite at three wide ones and was retired.

Up to this inning the game was scoreless. Woodruff held the visitors down to six hits, some of which were slightly punk. Only in the fourth and eighth innings did Uniontown get two hits and in the others they were let down without any, or got one.

In the former game Uniontown had a walkaway, winning handsily by the score of 10 to 1 and they figured on duplicating the trick. Therein hangs a tale. They were not acquainted with one Johnny Woodruff, whom Manager Amfanger assigned to job them up. He looked easy, but the curves were not to the Champions' liking. When they did hit the ball it usually went into the hands of some waiting fielder. Amfanger at short was a star. In spite of the three misuses chalked up against him. He had six hard putouts and one assist. Crozier in middle got three bad flies while Mathers in right shattered the hopes of a many Uniontown batters. "Tiffany got everything that came his way on first, but his chances were fewer than usual. Danny Hart got some bad ones, while three easy grounders he tripped over. In two of the cases it looked so much like a double play to Danny that he almost fell over himself. Birmingham only had two chances but one was a bird. Keller sent a sizzler down third base line in the seventh that looked like a sure hit. Birmingham got the comet but it turned him around. He fired it like a shot to Tiffany and Keller was retired, although he is a fleet runner.

McCloskey got six out of his seven chances and they were all hard. He fields the position well and was sure death to everything that came his way. Captain Hinton didn't have much to do so he dropped a high foul just to get in the error column.

There is not much to the story Conneltsville lost, but that was expected. The Uniontown rooters got a little sore because they couldn't have all the umphing their way, but for the most part they were satisfied. After a few innings had passed they quit offering odds and some didn't like to bet their own money even. Few wagers were made.

Several times it looked as though Uniontown would score. As many times Woodruff pitched himself out of a bad hole. In the second Roberts hit a grounder to Amfanger and got to first on the latter's bad throw. He tried to steal, however, and Moran threw him out, Amfanger being there with the ball before the runner hove in sight. Rudolph sent a hot one to Hart who fozzled and Keller fanned. Amfanger fumbled Will's grounder but Retzer retired the side by flying to Mathers.

It looked bad again in the third, but clever fielding saved the day. Haggeman singled and advanced a base on Brennan's sacrifice. McCloskey sent a hot liner over short which looked like a sure hit but Amfanger jumped in the air, pulled down the ball doubling Haggeman at second. It was a neat double play. Another double was pulled off in the fourth. Hinton singled and Roberts tried to sacrifice, but Red was nailed at second. Roberts went to second on Rudolph's single. Keller hit a hot one to Birmingham who threw Rudolph out at second. Roberts tried to get home on the play but was thrown out. Hart to Moran. This quick work opened Uniontown's eyes again.

In the seventh Conneltsville pulled off a play that had bells on it. Tiffany was playing deep for a grounder which came from Retzer's bat. Woodruff was slow covering the bag and Tiffany threw the ball where he should have been. The Uniontown fans were sure that the little pitcher would never get to first in time to catch the ball or Retzer either, but he did, and the out was made in grand style. Tiffany took a long chance, but it worked.

In the eighth Uniontown scored the only runs of the game on McCloskey's double, Hinton's single and Crozier's error.

The only times Conneltsville came near scoring were in the fourth and ninth innings. In the fourth with one out, Tiffany laced one of Haggeman's curves to left for three bases. Birmingham was hit by a pitched ball, but Crozier and Moran could not bring the clever first baseman home.

In the ninth things began to brighten up. With two out, Moran got his second single, going to second on a bunt by Woodruff. Pearson walked Mathers, but with the bases full Amfanger missed his chance to become a hero and popped out to Willig. Following is the score:

Uniontown batted for Crozier in the ninth.

Notes of the Game.
Woodruff was there with the goods. The little fellow pitched a winning game.

Moran got two hits off Pearson. And they say he can't hit.

A triple and a single is Tiffany's record. That boy is a corner.

Seven hits off the Champs, wasn't bad. And their best pitchers were in, too.

A row was narrowly averted in the eighth inning. Keller laid one to left which Umfrio Stumm called foul. In the subsequent argument Hinton grabbed the ump rather roughly by the shoulder and Ross struck at him. It looked like trouble, but nothing happened.

Hard luck for Crozier. That fly was his if Mathers hadn't collided with him. Aside from this pay both men played a great game in the outfield.

Mathers opened the game for Conneltsville for a hit. It was a pretty one, too, but the runner was out trying to stretch it into a two-bagger. Had he kept on he would have been safe.

Man on third with one out and couldn't score. It was hard luck, but those Champs are ball players.

Hits off to the P. O. M. Champions. They were there with the goods. A post season series, after Conneltsville wins the West Penn pennant, will look good.

Tiffany was the only man to get a stolen base. One or two Uniontown runners tried it, to their sorrow.

McCloskey is a jewel on second. He'll make some P. O. M. batters feel sick.

Moran caught a pretty game. Retzer, for Uniontown, is a new one and promises to be there for Fairmont with the goods after a little more practice.

Big Dan Raley, just back from a trip home, came out to the grounds, bringing his uniform with him. Pearson didn't put him in the game, however.

Four hits off Casey Haggeman in five innings isn't bad for an $800 a month team.

For the money expended in salaries, Conneltsville has the better team.

Maybe Conneltsville wouldn't make some of the P. O. M. nine, sit up and take notice if it was in that organization. McKeesport, for instance.

Mr. Lawson of Butler was not "among those present."

Attorney Horatio S. Dumbauld, a Uniontown stockholder, was there. He and Wooda Carr said mean things about the umpire.

Charles D. Clark of the Uniontown team was in the grandstand. He wasn't enthusiastic, except in the eighth inning.

Squire John Boyle left after the eighth inning. He was afraid something might happen.

The Uniontown rooters were out in force. Both sexes were well represented. They have a better opinion of the Conneltsville team, but not of the umpire.

Some visiting spectators even called Stumm a "Dumbass Mule." That's the worst lemon handed out yet. They took him for Maloy.

Esler only had one chance in left. He killed that.

In another season Red Hinton won't be fast enough for the West Penn League.

Talk about exaggerated ego, Uniontown baseball fans are certainly afflicted with it.

There will be an awakening at Uniontown before long. As they stand today the Champs will never do. The three Ohio teams, Steubenville, Zanes-

MAY DISSOLVE DUMA.

Bold Truths Hurlled at Czar's Ministers Brings Crisis in Russian Affairs.

ARMY IS ROUNDLY DENOUNCED

Members of Cabinet Leave Hall When Deputy Arraigns Autocracy and Its Tool, the Army—Colleagues Stand by the Undaunted Deputy.

St. Petersburg, April 30.—A savage attack made on the army and the government by the socialist member, M. Zurbakov, during the first executive session of the lower house of parliament, which was devoted to a debate on the bill fixing the number of recruits to be called to the colors, caused a rupture between the ministers and the duma, which for a time threatened to precipitate the dissolution of the house.

FEODOR GOLOVIN.

President of the second duma called into being by the czar of Russia.

After M. Zurbakov's address, in which he declared that under an autocratic regime the army was worthless except against the people and that it was beaten whenever it engaged in a foreign war, the ministers withdrew from the house and served an ultimatum on President Golovin that unless the offensive expressions were retracted by M. Zurbakov and the rule providing for temporary suspension was applied against him they would sever all future relations with the duma.

M. Golovin was unable to have the demand complied with as the radicals supported their colleague solidly and the conservatives refused to vote. The suspension and formal rebuke of M. Zurbakov, however, was pronounced by the president of the chamber, but this failed to satisfy the ministers, who subsequently ordered the government exports to withdraw from the evening session of the budget commission.

Friction in the Cabinet. Immediately after adjournment Premier Stolypin, who had not been present during the incident, summoned an extraordinary session of the cabinet, which apparently brought matters to an issue between the premier and the reactionary members of his ministry. What transpired is not known, but at midnight Premier Stolypin summoned M. Golovin and informed him that the incident had caused serious friction in the cabinet. He hoped, however, a way would be found to arrange matters without fatal consequences to the duma.

To the constitutional democratic committee, which agitated the conference, this news brought great relief and no measures on their part will be omitted to end the incident when the executive session is resumed.

The early discussion of the army bill in the duma was stormy, but the culmination came at 6:30 p. m. when M. Zurbakov made his speech. The scene was one of indescribable pandemonium. President Golovin, when he had restored things to a semblance of order, attempted to explain away Zurbakov's words as a criticism of the old army under the old regime, both of which had passed away. He then suspended the session for 10 minutes in order to allow the passions of the members to cool.

The recess was protracted for almost two hours while a series of weighty conferences were being held and reports by telephone were made to Premier Stolypin and the Emperor. Finally, Lieut. Gen. Rudigor, minister of war, on behalf of his colleagues, announced the ministerial ultimatum, adding that the Emperor would never stand such insults to his faithful army.

Refusal to Retract.

When the house reassembled M. Golovin announced that owing to the tumult he had not clearly understood the purport of M. Zurbakov's remarks, and after having read the stenographer's report he found the reflections upon the army unpardonable and inadmissible in debate. Therefore he deprived Zurbakov of right to the floor and imposed upon him a formal rebuke.

I. G. Tzoreteff, the social democrat from Kutais, immediately claimed recognition. He declared M. Zurbakov had spoken on behalf of the entire socialist democratic faction, which shared his sentiments. The wild tumult again broke loose and the members of the Right refused to permit M. Tzore-

BLAMES THE PINKERTONS

Secret Operations Stir Up Strife That They May Profit Thereby.

New York, April 30.—"The Pinkerton Labor Day," a book by Morris Friedman, published by Wishire, 20,000 copies of which are being rushed to the West for circulation before the Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone trial, contains a bitter attack on the methods of the Pinkerton agency. Friedman asserts that for three years he was a stenographer in the Pinkerton office in Denver, of which James McParland, who broke up the "Mollie Maguire" in Pennsylvania and sent many to the gallows, is in charge.

The book purports to show that the Pinkertons have been playing a double game with labor, capital and their employer. He declares that the Pinkertons have caused, led and prolonged strikes for the "benefit" of their own pocketbook. He also suggests that the evidence which the Pinkertons have gathered against Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone, leading officials of the Western Federation of Miners accused of having conspired to murder former Governor Frank Steiensen of Idaho, is part and parcel of a gigantic conspiracy against organized labor.

The book asserts that the activity of the Pinkertons in fomenting, leading and prolonging strikes has been especially noticeable in Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming, Idaho, Arizona and California. The industries affected by it, he asserts, were railroads, coal mining, iron molding and gold and copper mining.

"It is the dominating policy of Pinkerton's Agency," Friedman says, "and, consequently, the chief aim of the secret operative to prevent, if possible, the formation of a union at the plant of a client, or, if he finds a union already flourishing, to keep it in check, and to do everything in his power to disrupt it."

MANY HEADS CRACKED

Pair of Murderous Negroes Leave Bloody Trail at Norfolk.

Norfolk, Va., April 30.—As the result of a murderous tour in the Berkeley ward of Norfolk on the opposite side of the Elizabeth river by two negro highwaymen, Charles W. Davis, age 59, married, is dead; Edward Cooper, age 39, married, and Miles Newsom, colored, are lying unconscious with fractured skulls with little chance of recovery, and William Watkins, married, is less seriously hurt and will recover.

Two negroes were captured by a Berkeley policeman near the ferry docks immediately following the assaults and robbery, and one who gives his name as William McIntosh has been identified, some of the proceeds of the robberies being found on his person. The second negro, who at first escaped after firing on the officer, was later arrested and given his name as Starke Poyner, but he has not been positively identified.

CATARH CAN BE CURED.

Kill the Germs by Breathing Hy-o-mel. Gives Quick Relief.

Many people who have suffered with catarrh for years naturally think they cannot be cured, and become discouraged.

The reason they have failed of cure is because they have not treated the disease with the local remedy, Hy-o-mel, which is breathed through a neat pocket inhaler so that its healing medicated air reaches the most remote air cells, kills all catarrh germs and restores the mucous membrane of the nose, throat and lungs to a healthy condition.

Catarrh is really a local disease and to cure it, it must be treated by a remedy which reaches every spot in the nose and throat where the disease germs lodge. Hy-o-mel does this and gives relief from the first day's use.

A complete Hy-o-mel outfit costs but $1 and A. A. Clark gives a guarantee with every package to refund the money unless it cures.

GOING UP IN PRICE THE BRADDOCK GOLD MINING & MILLING CO.

STOCK IS SELLING FAST.

And in a very short time it will be double the present price of 20 cents per share. The price of this stock, unlike that of many mining propositions, is not watered or inflated in the slightest degree. The par value of $1.00 per share would not be an unreasonable price to pay for it.

THINK OF IT! When ore taken from the mine at a distance of only 200 feet in the tunnel being driven, assays as high as $700 worth of gold to the ton; what can be expected when the main body of ore is reached? The answer is plain. Thousands of tons of the richest grade gold ore will be mined and every shareholder of the Braddock Gold Mining and Milling Company will reap a fabulous profit on their stock.

This is your opportunity to make big money

With an investment of only a small amount of cash. Can you afford to miss it? You are taking no risk, when you put your money into this proposition, as the affairs of the company are controlled by business and professional men of Braddock, Pa., whose standing is the very highest.

JUST A WARNING

Not a great amount of money is yet needed to push developments and judging from the splendid sales of stock made in Connellsville and vicinity last week this will soon be secured, then WATCH THE PRICE OF STOCK GO SKYWARD.

Terms: 20 Cents per share. One-fifth down and one-fifth per month until paid.

Read this Letter of Recommendation from the President of the First National Bank of Braddock, Pa.

Braddock, Pa., Nov. 15, 1906. To Whom It May Concern:

I desire to say that my opinion of the Thunder Mountain district of the Braddock group of claims is that they are highly worthy of consideration by anyone seeking a good investment. The district has been only slightly developed and within the last two years has been forming to the front, and from best information obtainable several adjoining properties are working in the ore body, showing its future most promising. From information I deem most reliable the showing in the Braddock group of claims will be equal to any of the strikes yet made and will prove a good investment.

Respectfully,
James T. Russell.

When You Get Your Pay

What do you do with it? "None of your business", do you say? Perhaps that's true, but let us at least whisper this in your ear: The man who, when he gets his pay, stops at every store on the street, never going near the bank, will always be poor. It's only the part of wisdom to patronize the bank as well as the stores when you get your pay.

CHAPTER XXXIX.

M. ALBERT was not often surprised, and still less often did he show it. The party, however, who trooped cheerily into his little restaurant at something after midnight on this particular morning succeeded in placing him at a disadvantage.

First there was the Vicomte de Bergille, one of his most important and influential patrons for many reasons and whose presence alone was more than sufficient guarantee for whomsoever might follow. Then there was the Marquise de St. Ethol, one of the "haute noblesse," to welcome whom was a surpassing honor.

And then M. Guy Poynton, the young English gentleman, whose single appearance here a few weeks back had started all the undercurrents of political intrigue and who for the justification of French journalists should at that moment have been slowly drying at the morgue.

And with him the beautiful young English lady who had come there in search of him and who, as he had left the place in the small hours of the morning with M. Louis, should certainly not now have reappeared as charming and as brilliant as ever, her eyes soft with happiness and her laugh making music more wonderful than the violins of his little orchestra.

And following her the broad shouldered young Englishman, Sir George Duncombe, who had once entertained a very dangerous little party in his private room upstairs and against whom the dictum had gone forth.

And following him the Englishman with the heavy glasses, whom "Infair-Poynton" had also brought before to his cafe and with whom mademoiselle from Austria had talked long and earnestly.

And lastly M. Spencer, the English journalist, also with a black cross after his name, but seemingly altogether unconscious of it.

At Albert was not altogether at his best. Such a mixture of sheep and goats confused him. It was the vicomte who, together with the head waiter, arranged a redistribution of tables so that the whole party could sit together. It was the vicomte who constituted himself host. He summoned M. Albert to him.

"Albert," he said, with a little wave of the hand, "these ladies and gentlemen are my friends. To quote the words of my charming young companion here, M. Guy Poynton, whom you may possibly remember—'M. Albert bowed—'we are on the bust! I do not know the precise significance of the phrase any more than I suppose you do, but it means among other things a desire for the best you have to eat and to drink. Bring Tommy '22, Albert, and send word to your chef that we desire to eat without being hungry!'"

At Albert hurried away, glad of the opportunity to escape. Guy leaned back in his chair and looked around with interest.

"Same old place," he remarked, "and by Jove, there's the young lady from Austria!"

The young lady from Austria paid her bill and departed somewhat hastily. The vicomte smiled.

"I think we shall frighten a few of them away tonight," he remarked. "The wine! Good! We shall need magnanimity to drown our regrets if, indeed, our English friends desert us tomorrow. M. Guy Poynton, unconscious maker of history and savior of your country, I congratulate you upon your whole skin, and I drink your health!"

Guy drank and, laughing, refilled his glass.

"And to you, the best of amateur commentators and most charming of hosts!" he said. "Come soon to England and bring your automobile, and we will conspire against you with a policeman and a stop watch."

The vicomte sighed and glanced toward Phyllis.

"Under happier circumstances," he murmured, and then, catching the marquise's eye, he was silent.

The band played English music, and the chef sent them up a wonderful omelet Mlle. Ermine from the Felle-Beveres danced in the small space between the tables, and the vicomte buying a cluster of pink roses from the flower girl, sent them across to her with a diamond pin in the ribbon.

The marquise rebuked him half seriously, but he only laughed.

"Tonight," he said, "is the end of a great adventure. We amateurs have justified our existence. Tonight I give away all that I choose. Ah, Angela," he murmured in her dainty little ear, "if I had but a heart to give!"

She flashed a quick smile into his face, but her forehead was wrinkled.

"You have lost it to the young English miss. She is beautiful, but so cold!"

"Do you think so?" he whispered. "Look!"

Phyllis was seated next Duncombe, and he, too, was whispering something in her ear. The look with which she answered him told all that there was to know. The marquise, who had intercepted it, shrugged her shoulders.

"It is not worth what my friend, that 'you break your heart,'" she murmured. "For that one can see is an affair arranged."

He nodded.

"After all," he said, "the true Frenchman loves only in his own country."

"Or in any other where he may chance to be," she answered dryly. "Never mind, I shall not let you wander very far. Your supper party has been delightful—but you see the time!"

They trooped down the narrow stairs, laughing and talking. Duncombe and Phyllis came last, and their hands met for an instant behind the busy confusion of the night.

"Until tomorrow," she echoed softly as he handed her into the electric coupe.

Andrew and he drove down the hill together. Duncombe was a little ill at ease.

"There is one thing, Andrew," he said, "which I should like to say to you. I want you to remember the night in your garden when you asked me to come to Paris for you."

"Yes."

"I warned you, didn't I? I knew that it would come, and it has."

Andrew smiled in gentle scorn. "My dear Duncombe," he said, "why do you think it necessary to tell me a thing so glaringly apparent? I have nothing to blame you for. It was a foolish dream of mine, which I shall easily outlive, for, George, this has been a great day for me. I believe that my time for dreams has gone by."

Duncombe turned toward him with interest.

"What do you mean, Andrew?"

"I have been to see Poudroye, the great oculist. He has examined my eyes carefully, and he assures me positively that my eyesight is completely sound. In two months' time I shall see as well as any one."

Duncombe's voice shook with emotion. He grasped his friend's hand.

"That is good—magnificent—Andrew," he declared.

Their carriages rattled over the cobblestones as they crossed the square. The white, mysterious dawn was breaking over Paris. Andrew threw his head back with a little laugh.

"Back into the world, George, where dreams are only the cobwebs of time and a man's work grows beneath his hands like a living statue to the immortal. I feel my hands upon it and the great winds blowing. Thank God!"

THE END.

HOPE FOR PRISONERS.

Telegraph Code of Entombed Miners Interpreted After Much Speculation.

ARE SAFE ABOVE THE FLOOD

An Additional and More Powerful Pump Has Been Put to Work and Rescue of Starving Men is Expected By Tonight.

Johnstown, Pa., April 30.—At 10 o'clock last night the officials of Mine 88 of the Edward-White operations at Fountaintown, where seven men have been imprisoned by water for the last 72 hours, stated that it would take at least 24 hours more to effect a rescue.

The first dip between the pit mouth and the imprisoned men has been drained and the pumps being used by the rescuing party have been started upon the second dip. A wall of water 400 feet through, completely filling the mine heading, now separates the unfortunate men from the rescuing party.

When this section of the mine has been cleared of water the way will be clear and the seven miners can be brought outside. There has been taken in the mine a pump brought from the Berwind No. 50 mine at Windber, having a capacity of 1,500 gallons a minute, and five times the size of any at work previously.

Mine Inspector Evans and assistant superintendent of the Berwind mines Delaney stated that they had arrived at a solution of a problem which has been puzzling them since the imprisoned foreigners first started signaling on the air-tips line. The prisoners sounded four long blasts and then seven. This the officials believe to mean that they are imprisoned in the fourth north heading off of second right heading, and that there are seven of them living. The map of the mine shows that the overcast in this fourth north heading, or air course, is almost two feet above the water level, and that the men are all safe if they have reached the elevated position mentioned.

It is now believed that the men will be reached early tonight.

KEEPS MURDER THREAT

Love Sick Swain Follows Girl From Europe and Kills Her.

Philadelphia, April 30.—Martha Korals, a comely Prussian girl, was shot and instantly killed here under unusual circumstances by Franz Endrakat, an enraged lover, who after murdering the girl, sent a bullet into his own brain, inflicting a wound from which he cannot recover.

Endrakat, who was angry because the girl would not marry him, followed her to this country from the province of Pomerania, in Rhenish Prussia, where four years ago he attempted to kill her by beating her over the head with a hatchet. After this attempt he cut his throat in an effort to end his life, and after lying four months in a hospital, according to the information given to the coroner, he was sentenced to one year and eight months' imprisonment.

Now he got into this country with a penal record has not been ascertained. After the assault in Europe Miss Korals, who was the daughter of a physician, came to Philadelphia. Endrakat, despite the refusal of the girl to marry him in his native country, followed her to America and to Philadelphia. He went to work at Cramp's shipyard and boarded in the North arm section of the city. Miss Korals secured a place of maid in the home of August Ramstein in the southern section of the city.

Endrakat met the girl by chance in the street and endeavored to renew his attentions. He was repulsed. He followed her about and threatened to kill her unless she married him. Finally Miss Korals caused a warrant to be issued for his arrest, but at the last minute she declined to prosecute him.

Endrakat met Miss Korals and followed her from the home of her employer to a nearby bakery and again pressed his suit. The girl told him she would sooner die than marry him, whereupon he drew a revolver and sent two bullets into her brain. He then turned the weapon upon himself and sent one of the leaden missiles into his head, falling unconscious across the body of the girl. Endrakat is 35 years of age and his victim was 22.

OSTER LOSES FIGHT.

COOPER RUSHES TO THE RESCUE

Bedford County Representative Pushes Up Strong Argument Without Avail—Resolution Complimenting Treasurer Barry Blottrack.

Harrisburg, April 30.—Mr. Oster, Republican, of Bedford, last night called up in the house his resolution to place on the calendar his bill to abrogate charters of railroad corporations which have not fulfilled the rights granted them by their charters, notwithstanding the negative report by the Judiciary committee. The motion was defeated, 96 to 68, for lack of a constitutional majority.

Mr. Oster opened the debate on the resolution, saying it was aimed at railroad companies which have not carried out the provisions of their charters and reading from the Republican platform a plank which he said compelled the passage of such a law.

"I want to know," he said "why that platform plank has not been passed. The people allowed in that platform when they voted for Governor Stuart. Was it an honest pledge or a joke? My people at home want to know, and I'm here to find out by a yea and nay vote."

Mr. Knepper, Republican, of Somerset, followed Mr. Oster, making a plea for the adoption of the resolution.

Mr. Stoen, Democrat, of Fulton, said the resolution is a step toward carrying out a plank in the platform and that he is for the resolution and the bill.

Rebuttal for the P. R. R. "The chief offender in this respect," he said, "has been the Pennsylvania railroad since it acquired the rights of the South Penn. in 1853, for the Pennsylvania railroad has merely snapped its fingers in the face of the people."

Mr. Cooper, Republican, of Delaware, said the bill would deprive every railroad corporation, steam or electric, which has not absolutely fulfilled its charter rights of all its rights. He said the bill means robbery of all such corporations in putting too property up at public sale.

Mr. Pratt, Republican, of Allegheny, said the bill is class legislation and unconstitutional. He said the bill is class legislation and unconstitutional. He said the bill is class legislation and unconstitutional.

Mr. Flynn of Elk offered a resolution extending "The profound thanks of the members of the general assembly" to State Treasurer Berry for his action in connection with the capital scandal and pledging him "our hearty moral support" in his withholding payment of bills to the amount of $200,000.

Mr. Cooper moved to insert the name of Governor Stuart immediately preceding the name of Mr. Berry. Mr. Flynn raised the point of order that this was not germane, because Governor Stuart was not without any payments. The speaker declared this well taken.

Mr. Millison of Venango moved "To further a complimentary Mr. Berry for having made his charges to the people and not to the commission."

On motion of Mr. Cooper the resolution and the Millison amendment were referred to the capital investigating committee, 115 to 47. It was not a strictly party vote.

The Smith civil service bill, as amended by the municipal corporations committee, was reported favorably to the senate. The bill applies only to second-class cities and has passed the house. It has been amended so that the terms of the civil service commissioners shall expire with that of the mayor and also, that in case of consolidation of Pittsburgh and the city shall have equal powers with the Pittsburgh commission. At the suggestion of Senator authorities the minimum salary of the chief commissioner was fixed at $500 and each other commissioner at $250. However, commissioners have the power to fix the salaries.

No Change in Situation
